

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

ACCI NOT SHY IN ITS CRITICISM

As published in the The Australian Financial Review on Monday, 18 September 2006.

By Peter Hendy, Chief Executive, Australian Chamber of Commerce and Industry

---

Paul Keating accuses me of turning the Australian Chamber of Commerce and Industry into a government propagandist (“Hendy wrong on super claim”, Letters, September 15).

However, once again, logic fails him. He actually says in the letter that ACCI’s position on superannuation has been criticised by Treasurer Peter Costello.

It is an odd subservience to the government when we are questioning what the Treasurer is saying on these taxation issues.

We maintain our position on superannuation and taxation. We speak on behalf of business in Australia and where we disagree with a political party’s policy position, whether in government or not, we are not afraid of saying so.

However, unlike Keating we do not degenerate into personal abuse and invective to win our arguments.

Peter Hendy
Chief Executive
Australian Chamber of Commerce and Industry
Barton, ACT